

Fast Facts About Osteopathic Medical Education

Graduates of Osteopathic Medical Colleges

Since 1999, the number of graduates of osteopathic medical colleges has increased by 38 percent, reaching 3,000 in 2007. This increase is a result of both the opening of new osteopathic medical colleges and an increase in class size. Twenty-nine percent of 2007 graduates reported that they intended to specialize in a primary care discipline.

