

Now Enrolling: The Next Generation of Doctors

Attention 3rd-6th grade families!

We've got a summer program for our future healthcare heroes.

What does it mean to be healthy? Who are doctors and what do they DO? The American Association of Colleges of Osteopathic Medicine (AACOM) is looking for students in grades 3-6 to join our free Doctors & What They DO summer program.

Participating 3rd-6th grade students will complete a two-week curriculum, Monday-Friday, consisting of 10 lessons ranging from 30-50 minutes per day. All lessons will be offered virtually and taught by current osteopathic medical students.

Carefully designed to educate and inspire the next generation of doctors, the lessons and curricular resources are aligned with Common Core State Standards.

There is no cost to participate in Doctors & What They DO. All lessons will be taught virtually through Zoom.

The program starts June 1, 2021 and will run in concurrent two-week sessions through August 1, 2021.

For more information and to enroll your child, visit:

www.aacom.org/Doctors-and-what-they-DO

Questions? Email us at choosedo@aacom.org.

Doctors & What They DO

An Educational Initiative by

aacom[®]

AMERICAN ASSOCIATION OF
COLLEGES OF OSTEOPATHIC MEDICINE