Jennifer S. Capezzuti, D.O., M.P.H., M.B.A.
Fort Lauderdale, Florida

Graduation PowerPoint: Generic Drugs versus Biologics and Follow-on Biologics

Dr. Capezzuti received her Doctor of Osteopathic Medicine degree from Nova Southeastern University College of Osteopathic Medicine (NSUCOM) in 2004. At the same time, she received her Master of Public Health degree with highest honors, graduating first in her class. In 2007, she completed a three year internship/residency in Family Practice at Broward General Medical Center in Fort Lauderdale, Florida. Dr. Capezzuti received a Master of Business Administration degree from Lehigh University in Bethlehem, Pennsylvania in 1997. She received her Bachelor of Science degree from The Pennsylvania State University in 1992. She is a Diplomate, American Osteopathic Board of Family Physicians, since 2007.

Dr. Capezzuti is a member of the American Osteopathic Association (AOA), the American Medical Association (AMA), the American College of Osteopathic Family Physicians (ACOFP), the Florida Osteopathic Medical Association (FOMA), the Broward County Medical Association (BCMA) and their Women's Physician Group, and the Broward County Osteopathic Medical Association (BCOMA). Additionally, she is an active member of DOCare International and has served on medical missions in Guatemala since 2001, becoming faculty in 2007. Dr. Capezzuti mentors NSUCOM third and fourth year medical students in her office, and will begin to mentor Kaiser University Physician Assistant students in her practice with the inception of their 2010 program. Additionally, she is an active member of the Junior League of Greater Fort Lauderdale, Florida.

Dr. Capezzuti is in family practice specializing in preventative medicine for patients age 13 and older. She is in solo practice in Fort Lauderdale, Florida, where Broward Health employs her. Broward Health is one of the ten largest public health systems in the nation. Prior to medical school and residency, Merck & Co, Inc. employed Dr. Capezzuti. She began her career with Merck in 1992 as a staff biologist. She went on to hold positions in regulatory and clinical research as well. After earning her M.B.A., she decided to try her hand in the marketing arena. Since marketing managers were required to have a minimum of two years of field experience in order to "learn the ropes", she took a pharmaceutical sales representative position in Boca Raton, Florida. She then fell in love with Florida and enrolled in medical school instead of returning to Pennsylvania.

Dr. Capezzuti's participation in the Health Policy Fellowship is self-sponsored.

Joanna L. Drowos, D.O., M.P.H., M.B.A., C.Q.M.
Boca Raton, FL

Dr. Drowos earned her Doctor of Osteopathic Medicine degree from Nova Southeastern University College of Osteopathic Medicine in 2004. During her tenure at NSU she also earned a Master of Public Health degree and completed an Undergraduate Fellowship in Osteopathic Principles and Practice. After completing a Pediatrics-tracked rotating internship at Palms West Hospital in Loxahatchee, FL, Dr. Drowos proceeded to complete a residency in Preventive Medicine at the Palm Beach County Health Department immediately followed by a Family Medicine residency at Broward General Hospital in Ft. Lauderdale, FL. Dr. Drowos is certified by the American Osteopathic Board of Occupational and Preventive Medicine, the American Osteopathic Board of Family Practice and the American College of Medical Quality. In addition to her medical training, she earned a Master of Business Administration in Healthcare Administration from Florida Atlantic University in 2008. She also completed the Training in Policy Studies (TIPS) Health Policy Fellowship for residents through NYCOM in 2008.

She is a member of numerous professional organizations including the American Osteopathic Association, the Florida Osteopathic Medical Association, the American College of Osteopathic Family Physicians and the American Osteopathic College of Occupational and Preventive Medicine. She serves on the ACOFP Young Physicians and Residents Committee and the Public Health Committee. Dr. Drowos has served on several AOA committees and bureaus including the Membership Bureau and the Committee on Socioeconomic Affairs. Community involvement includes completion of the Anti-Defamation League's Glass Leadership Institute and serving on the ADL's Florida Regional Board, as well as on the leadership boards for Hadassah and the South Palm Beach County Jewish Federation. She also volunteers for Animal Aid, a no-kill pet rescue shelter. Awards won during medical school include the Government and Public Policy Award, the Chancellor's Award for Outstanding Public Health Student, the FMA Sanford Mullen Award for outstanding community service and the 2002 NSU-COM Student of the Year. In 2008 she was selected for an Excellence in Medicine Award from the American Medical Association in addition to being named an American Osteopathic Foundation Merck Outstanding Resident.

Dr. Drowos is currently the Center Medical Director of the Riviera Beach Health Center with the Palm Beach County Health Department. There she oversees and directly provides care to patients with communicable diseases like HIV/AIDS and Tuberculosis. She has a faculty appointment at NSU-COM and is on the faculty for the Preventive Medicine Residency with the Palm Beach County Health Department. Additionally, she works as a consultant for the medicine service at the V.A. Hospital in West Palm Beach, Florida.

Nova Southeastern University College of Osteopathic Medicine sponsored Dr. Drowos for the 2010 Health Policy Fellowship.

James M. Lally, D.O.
Chino, California

Graduation PowerPoint: Quality of Care in Nursing Homes: Staffing Ratios Affect Care

James M. Lally received his Doctor of Osteopathic Medicine degree from the College of Osteopathic Medicine of the Pacific in 1991, following with a Masters' of Science degree in Health Professions Education in 1993. He received his Bachelor of Sciences in Liberal Studies, Regents' College, Albany, NY. He completed a rotating internship and family practice residency at Doctors' Hospital of Montclair and stayed in the local area.

Dr. Lally served in the US Army for 15 years, starting as a Special Forces Medic and ending up as a Physician's Assistant. A parachute injury ended his military career prematurely although he was able to smoothly transition into medical school.

He is board certified in Family Practice, and has Certificates of Added Qualification in Sports Medicine and Geriatrics by the American Osteopathic Association. He is a Fellow of the American College of Osteopathic Family Physicians, the American College of Physician Executives, and the American Osteopathic Academy of Sports Medicine.

In 2000, Dr. Lally earned a Masters in Medical Management from the Heinz School of Public Policy of Carnegie Mellon University, where he put together a concept to buy a psychiatric hospital and an acute care hospital in Chino, California. He achieved his project goal in 2001 and for 3 years worked to maintain the viability of the two facilities. Due to poor government reimbursement and even poorer insurance contracts, he placed the two facilities into Chapter 11 in early 2004. He sold the psychiatric hospital to Psych Solutions and the acute care hospital became part of the Prime Healthcare System, which has been recognized by Modern Healthcare as one of the top 10 healthcare systems in the country. He has remained at the helm of the facility as its President & Chief Medical Officer. He maintains daily patient contact through an internship and family practice residency that he directs and works as a hospitalist in addition to his administrative responsibilities of overseeing the daily operations of ChinoValley Medical Center.

He is the Chairman of the International Shooting Sports Federation's medical committee and was the immediate past-President for USA Shooting. He has participated in the last 4 Olympic Games as the physician in charge of shooting and its venue. He is currently on the Board of the US Judo Association.

Dr. Lally is past-President of the Osteopathic Physicians & Surgeons of California. He is the current chair of the AOA Bureau of Education and the immediate past chair of the Commission on Osteopathic Colleges' Accreditation. He sits on the Executive Committee of the Bureau of Hospitals, is on the Board of Directors of the American Osteopathic Information Association and is the Vice-President of the American Osteopathic Foundation. He has been a delegate to the AOA House of Delegates for the past 15 years. Dr. Lally was awarded AOA's Mentor of the Year for 2008. Prime Healthcare Services, Inc and Chino Valley Medical Center sponsored Dr Lally in the Health Policy Fellowship.

Elaine LeTarte, M.A.
Tempe, Arizona

Graduation PowerPoint: Building Public Trust in Disaster Planning

Ann K. Peton, B.S.
Blacksburg, Virginia

Graduation PowerPoint: Barriers in Implementing a Patient-Centered Medical Home

Ms. Peton received her BS in Geography from Bemidji State University in Bemidji, Minnesota in 1983 with an emphasis in computerized mapping and data analysis. Other certifications in Project Management, GIS technologies/software and Leadership skills training were obtained during the subsequent twenty-five years of working within the industry. Much of Ms. Peton's experience and network building in policy and healthcare workforce issues has been gained over the recent eight years of managing academic-based research centers: the Rural Policy Research Institute's Community Information Resource Center and Edward Via Virginia College of Osteopathic Medicine's National Center for the Analysis of Healthcare Data (NCAHD).

Over the last twelve years, Ms. Peton has worked very closely with many national healthcare organizations on healthcare policy research and analysis support, including the American Osteopathic Association (AOA), the American Medical Association (AMA), the American Association of Colleges of Osteopathic Medicine (AACOM), Federation of State Medical Boards (FSMB), and Health Resources and Services Administration (HRSA) Bureau of Health Professions and Office of Rural Health Policy. Ms. Peton is on both the national advisory and working committee for the National Center for Rural Health Works; is Chairman the Healthcare Workforce of the National Organization of State Offices of Rural Health (NOSORH); serves on the National Rural Health Association Education Committee; serves as Chairman of the Virginia Rural Health Resource Center; and serves on the board for the Virginia Rural Health Association.

As the Director of two centers at EVVCOM, NCAHD and the Center for Rural Health Policy, Education and Research, Ms. Peton and her staff have gathered, processed and mapped all physicians and fourteen different non-physician health providers from each state licensure board where data was available. This has never been accomplished before and we are partnering with Health Resources and Services Administration (HRSA) and other entities to make use of this data and subsequent analysis to support more effective national, regional and state healthcare policies/legislation. Prior to coming to EVVCOM, Ms. Peton directed CIRC and worked as a consultant for many public and private health and human services agencies and organizations across the nation.

EVVCOM sponsored Ms. Peton's participation in the Health Policy Fellowship.
